JOBES IN COURT.

He Pleads Not Guilty of Intent to Murder.

A Sickening Sight Is He-Looks As Though He Had Run Against a Moving Machine.

In the city police court yesterday morning Albert C. Jones, the hack driver who fought a razor duel with Joe Williams in the Harris block, was presented on a charge of assault with intent to murder. Jones' appearance would indicate that he had struck a moving machine while it was trying to lower the Nancy Hanks record, instead of a little baron's knife. His face and head had been literally carved into pieces and swathed in bandages and absorbent cotton with his eyes, nose and mouth peeping out, swollen and puffed, he presented anything but a handsome appearance. Jones entered a plea of not guilty and his opponent, Williams, being unable to appear, he was held in $700 bonds to answer at the examining trial.

Emma Hansen, the woman who was the cause of all the trouble, was also brought in to answer a charge of being a prostitute. She was fined $25, which was promptly paid, and the court then ordered that she be removed to jail until she gave a paper bond of $200 in addition to the cash bond of $50 already in for her appearance as a witness at the trial of Jones and Williams.

Four inmates put up $5 each for the privilege of getting drunk.

THE TAX CASE.

Increase May be Collected for Territorial Purposes.

But Judge Zane Rules that It May Not Be Taken from the Taxpayers of the County.

In the Third District court yesterday the case of W. H. Sherman and others against Leonard G. Hardy, to show cause why the collector should not be enjoined from collecting taxes upon the increased assessment of 10 per cent fixed by the territorial board of equalization, came up for a hearing.

In the complaint the plaintiffs set up that on Sept. 1 the county court delivered to the collector the tax lists of the county, duly made out for the collection of taxes.

After some 10,000 tax receipts had been issued, or about Sept. 17, the territorial board met and increased the assessed value of real estate 10 per cent. When this was done the collector handed over the tax duplicate to the county clerk, who provided to revise the lists, increasing the tax for county and county school purposes on the increase made by the board.

The plaintiffs claimed that the increase was not given by the county court, and further that the act of the territorial board was void because the increase was made after September 1 when the tax lists were by law delivered to the collector, and further that it was void because numerous persons had paid their tax and held receipts in full issued before the increased assessment was made.

The case was argued by Judge Sutherland for the taxpayers, and Judge Marshall for the board of equalization.

Judge Zane in rendering his decision said that on September 17 the territorial board of equalization raised the assessed value of unimproved real estate 10 per cent. Upon that assessment is a tax fixed by law of 5 mills for territorial purposes, and 4 mills for county and county school purposes. The tax of 5 mills for territorial purposes upon the increased assessment is valid, but the tax of 4 mills for county and county school purposes is invalid.

The effect of the decision is that the tax for county and county school purposes must be levied upon Lynch's original assessment, but the territorial tax of 5 mills may be collected upon the increased assessment made by the board. The county revenue is topped off $10,000 by the decision, but an appeal will at once be taken to the supreme court.

MERCER IS ARRESTED.

Wyoming's World's Fair Commissioner Charged With Criminal Libel.

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—A. S. Mercer, World's fair commissioner from Cheyenne, Wyo., and editor of the Northwestern Live Stock Journal, published in that city, has been arrested on a charge of criminal libel, preferred by J. E. Clay, Jr., president of the Wyoming Stock Growers' association, and member of the firm of Clay & Forrest, of Chicago. Mercer this afternoon gave bonds to appear on the 26th.

The suit is an echo of the "rustlers" war which caused such excitement in Wyoming last spring and summer. Clay charges Mercer with the publication of an article bitterly reflecting on the complainant and charging that he was directly responsible for the trouble among the cattle-men. It is further alleged in Mercer's article, says Clay's complaint, that he (Clay), "and his co-workers deliberately made a list of the men to be killed and of the houses to be burned, and plotted treason to the state with the power that he and went forth to murder and burn. What cared he for his fellow men, if by murder and arson more grass could be secured and greater returns made to his foreign stockholders? Suffering and blood counted for naught against the golden returns on investments made."
